Tivoli Secures FEMA funding for Winter Storm Expense

Tivoli... Village of Tivoli Mayor Bryan F. Cranna announced today that The Village of Tivoli has been informed that it will be receiving $5896 from FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency) to cover expenses incurred from a December 2010 snow storm. The federal government's payment to the village is $4422 and the state amount is $1474

The storm which dumped several inches of snow throughout the Hudson Valley over a three day period, saw Tivoli's Department of Public Works working extended hours and also saw the need for Tivoli to bring in outside assistance via a private company to remove much of the snow on some of its main roads.

Mayor Cranna stated, "The dedicated men of the Department of Public Works worked for hours on end to ensure that the roads throughout our village were plowed and accessible. Tivoli is fortunate to have such a dedicated team of employees."

Cranna also lauded Tivoli's Clerk, Linda Gonnella for her efforts in working to ensure that the village received its funding. "Clerk Gonnella as always, worked diligently on this project and as a result, Tivoli will be receiving funds to help offset the high costs incurred from the winter storm.

The village expects to receive the funds within 90 days.
